MISSION I: RESEARCH PROGRAMS

Research Programs I: Medical and Scientific Research Grants

The ABTA's historical support of early-career investigators working to improve brain tumor diagnostics and treatment has contributed to populating the modern brain tumor research and scientific community. Many of the scientists we have supported have gone on to mentor new researchers in the field and have become leaders of some of the nation's most prestigious brain tumor centers. In addition to supporting early-career investigators, the ABTA funds discovery science which encourages the development of new approaches to the diagnosis and treatment of brain tumors. These grants allow researchers to conduct the novel early scientific studies needed to secure additional funding for their projects. Interest in these new concepts has been shown by the National Institutes of Health (NIH) and venture capitalists, who have provided additional funding at significantly higher levels than the ABTA's grants. The development of new diagnostic and therapeutic approaches advances the understanding and treatment of brain tumors, and increases the potential for improving, extending and, ultimately, saving the lives of those living with a brain tumor diagnosis.

An independent, multi-level, external review process ensures ABTA grants are awarded for the most meritorious research projects. Our reviewers include our prestigious Scientific Advisory Council members and external experts who are leaders in the brain tumor community. Many were recipients of ABTA funding earlier in their careers.

The ABTA's Request for Applications (RFA) Driven Funding Program supports career development and innovative research through the following grant mechanisms:

- BASIC RESEARCH FELLOWSHIPS
$100,000, two-year grants for postdoctoral fellows embarking on careers dedicated to brain tumor research. Through these awards and under the guidance of a mentor, the ABTA is ensuring a diverse pool of highly trained brain tumor scientists will emerge as the next generation of leaders in the field. An ABTA Basic Research Fellowship is highly regarded, and often the first grant of a postdoctoral fellow's career. We have helped retain many researchers in this field, via ABTA Basic Research Fellowships, and many transitioned into leaders of brain tumor research laboratories and treatment programs. They also now serve as mentors to new scientists entering the field.
- JACK AND FAY NETCHIN MEDICAL STUDENT SUMMER FELLOWSHIPS
$3,000 summer stipend grants to allow medical students to spend a summer conducting brain tumor research under the guidance of an experienced mentor. These grants aim to expand the nation's pool of physician-scientists in the brain tumor research field. These summer fellowships are one of the most exciting areas for the ABTA to fund as they are so meaningful to these enthusiastic students embarking on their careers. This unique opportunity gives the grantees the ability to focus on a research project full-time and determine how they can incorporate brain tumor research into their developing careers. It also provides them with valuable research lab skills that will motivate them to pursue a career in neuro-oncology research.

- DISCOVERY GRANTS

One-year, $50,000 grants to fund high-risk/high-impact projects with the potential to change current diagnostic or treatment paradigms for adults and children with brain tumors. These grants specifically encourage innovative novel research at its earliest stages, in the hopes that it spurs additional funding in the future.

Discovery Grants, while considered the most “high-risk/high-impact” research pursuits, carry the highest opportunity for reward and innovation. Funding has been provided for a variety of focus areas including immunotherapy, new biomarkers, nanoparticles and stem cell research.

- ABTA RESEARCH COLLABORATION GRANTS

The ABTA Research Collaboration Grants (ARC) are the largest grants offered. These are two-year, $200,000 grants designed to specifically bring together two or more researchers from multiple disciplines and multiple institutions. Researchers are encouraged to move toward team science projects that could generate results that are more scientifically impactful. Complex problems, such as treating brain tumors, require complex approaches including the use of innovative, modern technologies. The ARC grants were launched in 2016.

Research Programs II: Strategic Partnerships

The ABTA invests time and resources into strategic partnerships to leverage capacities of different organizations to address critical challenges and cross-cutting issues in research, clinical practice, and public health.

- ABTA is one of the founding members of the Brain Tumor Funders Collaborative (BTFC), established in 2005. The BTFC is a unique alliance of brain tumor research funding organizations that work together to enhance collaboration and strategic coordination of research efforts. The BTFC sees funders, advocates, clinicians, and researchers as one community with shared goals. The BTFC releases periodic calls for applications to fund research projects through this partnership. Most recently, the BTFC supported four (4) $750,000 projects focused on immunotherapy for primary brain tumors in both children and adults.
- ABTA is a member of the Health Research Alliance (HRA), which brings together not-for-profit, non-governmental funders of biomedical research and training to foster open communication and collaboration among members, provide comprehensive data and analysis about the funding of biomedical research and training by HRA member organizations, identify gaps in funding to facilitate innovative grant-making, and address any issues key to accelerating research discovery and its translation to the patient. These efforts support the continuum of health research and training from biomedical science to applications that advance health.

- ABTA has a partnership with the American Association for Neurological Surgeons (AANS) through two programs that support early-career investigators. Both programs foster and recognize early-career talent in the field of neurosurgery:
 - American Association of Neurological Surgeons (AANS) Young Investigator Award
 - Congress of Neurological Surgeons (CNS) Young Investigator Award
- ABTA has supported the Society for Neuro-Oncology (SNO) Annual Meeting for many years through conference support and educational programming. SNO has become a dynamic force in neuro-oncology, providing a rich environment for its diverse worldwide membership.
- ABTA has a relationship with the American Association for Cancer Research (AACR) which is the oldest and largest scientific organization in the world focused on every aspect of high-quality, innovative cancer research. Its reputation for scientific breadth and excellence attracts the premier researchers in the field. AACR also publishes highly ranked peer-reviewed journals in cancer research.

Each year, the ABTA supports the attendance of early-career investigators at the AACR Annual Meeting. These AACR-ABTA Scholar-in-Training Awards are presented to researchers conducting high-merit brain cancer research who present their research findings at the conference. The conference is attended by approximately 18,000 participants from around the world.

- Since 2008, the ABTA has been the only patient advocacy organization represented on the National Comprehensive Cancer Network (NCCN) Central Nervous System Cancer Panel, which reviews the NCCN CNS guidelines on an annual basis and makes recommendations for updates based on the evolving standard of care.
- The ABTA supports the Response Assessment in Neuro-Oncology (RANO) Annual Meeting that occurs every year in conjunction with the American Society for Clinical Oncology (ASCO) Annual Meeting. The RANO meeting provides a forum for scientists and clinicians to work together to develop appropriate guidelines for measuring patient response to treatment in clinical trials.
- ABTA has a partnership with over nine different cancer advocacy organizations and seven metastatic brain tumor experts in the field, to address the needs of metastatic brain tumor patients and caregivers through our Metastatic Brain Tumor Collaborative. This is a strong collaboration to design and deliver educational programming, services, and research funding in the metastatic brain tumor space.

Research Programs III: Research Engagement

The ABTA prioritizes continued engagement with the broader brain tumor research community through the following:

- ABTA Scientific Advisory Council (SAC) is a group of top-level scientists and clinicians who advise the organization on its research-related efforts. With the guidance of these experts, ABTA can invest every research dollar as carefully and conscientiously as possible.
 - ABTA's research grants are reviewed through a rigorous peer-review process. Reviewers include SAC members who have made significant contributions to advancing the field or who demonstrate promise of leading the field and are committed to furthering ABTA's mission.
 - SAC members serve as Chairpersons who help to lead the review committee's discussion of applications during the peer-review process.
 - SAC members participate in yearly strategy meetings and contribute their expertise in other ways to ABTA mission-related programs.
- ABTA Alumni Research Network (AARN) is a network of previously and currently funded ABTA grantees. The ABTA brings AARN members together for an Annual Meeting where they are encouraged to share ideas and gain insights that will shape their careers and the brain tumor landscape. AARN members engage with the ABTA in several ways including serving as peer reviewers or speakers for our conferences and events.

MISSION II: PATIENT SERVICES

Patient Services I: Brain Tumor Information and Education

The ABTA is a trusted resource for brain tumor patients, caregivers and health care professionals. Our well-trained staff respond daily to requests from patients and families seeking assistance from understanding a diagnosis or treatment to navigating the emotional complexities of a brain tumor diagnosis. From a wide range of publications to webinars and educational programs, the goal of the ABTA is to ensure that brain tumor patients, their families and those who care for them have the tools and information they need from the point of diagnosis throughout the trajectory of the disease.

The ABTA provides:

- The ABTA website, ABTA.org, offers more than 200 pages of information about primary and metastatic brain tumors for adult and pediatric patients, caregivers, and survivors. Information is available in both English and Spanish, and includes brain tumor types, treatment options and emotional and social support.

- Professionally reviewed educational brochures – specific brain tumor information from diagnosis through treatment are available at no charge to patients and families. Most are available in downloadable format and several are translated in Spanish.
- Well-trained staff delivering one-on-one informational services on ABTA's CareLine by phone or email, assists patients and caregivers by providing emotional support and providing resources that meet their needs.
- Patient and Caregiver Mentor Support Program connects newly-diagnosed patients and caregivers with trained patient or caregiver mentors to help navigate a brain tumor diagnosis.
- Clinical Trial Research and Patient Navigation is offered in partnership with the Brain Tumor Network (BTN), a non-profit organization specializing in assisting patients to find treatments and clinical trials that best suit their individual needs.
- A Featured Clinical Studies Program that aims to provide patients and caregivers with a way to easily understand and navigate available clinical trials and other types of patient studies to increase patient consideration and participation. Clinical studies are updated monthly and undergo an intensive review process by ABTA staff and a clinical review committee.
- "Connections" online support community connects patients, families, caregivers and friends for support and inspiration. There is no charge for membership, and the site is available 24/7.
- Regularly scheduled webinars are free, hour-long presentations on topics of interest for brain tumor patients, families, and health care professionals. Webinars are recorded and can be viewed at any time on the ABTA website and our Anytime Learning Channel on YouTube.
- ABTA's National Conference, an annual patient-centered conference bringing the nation's leading medical and research experts together with patients and their families to share brain tumor research, treatment, and care trends.
- Patient and Family Meetings are free educational programs, designed for brain tumor patients, caregivers, and their loved ones to learn, gain support and build a community.
- Brain Tumor Support Group listing on our website allows users to locate support groups by state or zip code within the United States.
- Brain Tumor Treatment Center Guide on our website allows patients and their caregivers to search and compare treatment centers to make informed decisions about treatment and care.
- Outreach to and collaboration with health care institutions to promote and enhance brain tumor education and awareness at the local level.
- Updates on brain tumor care and treatment through our bi-monthly e-newsletter, MindMatters, and regular content updates to our website.

Advocacy

ABTA's successful advocacy efforts made possible the inclusion of brain cancer as an eligible cancer for study in the Department of Defense's Peer-Reviewed Cancer Research Program. This has enabled more federal funding to be awarded for brain tumor research.

In addition, the ABTA is active in its alliances with such organizations as the American Association for Cancer Research (AACR) and the American Society for Clinical Oncology (ASCO) as well as partnerships with the National Cancer Institute through NCI-Connect and the National Council of Research Advocates.

ABTA continues to strengthen partnerships with organizations and federal agencies to help impact legislation initiatives that can accelerate federal funding and improve brain tumor patient care.

Patient Services II: HEALTH CARE PROFESSIONAL OUTREACH

The ABTA brings to the health care professional community the tools to assist them in providing their patients and their patients' caregivers with up-to-date educational information, opportunities to help them better understand the impact of a brain tumor on the lives of patients and their families, and collaborations that will advance new approaches to the diagnosis and treatment of brain tumors. Through relationships with health care providers and collaborative efforts between organizations, institutions and researchers, the ABTA adds to the knowledge of the impact of this diagnosis on patients and their families.

We do this by:

Assessing the informational needs of health care professionals relative to the ABTA's offerings in the areas of a) educational information being sought, b) their preferred manner of receiving educational information, and c) the ways in which this information is extended to their patients and caregivers.

Actively participating in professional organizations as members, exhibitors, or both, such as the Academy of Oncology Nurse & Patient Navigators, the American Association of Neuroscience Nurses, the American Association of Neurological Surgeons, the College of American Pathology, and the Oncology Nursing Society. These organizations provide the ABTA with opportunities to enhance our visibility and share resources with the brain tumor clinical and scientific communities.

The ABTA established a Clinical Advisory Committee to assist in the continual review and improvement of our programs and services and development of a comprehensive health care professional outreach strategy that will allow the ABTA to engage and empower patients in underserved communities and help break down barriers to brain tumor education and resources.
